Nixon given more time to respond

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the request of the White House, special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski today gave President Nixon four more days to respond to a subpoena demanding additional Watergate evidence.

The subpoena, issued March 15, called for a response today.

But, over the weekend James D. St.Clair, President Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, asked Jaworski for more time and the prosecutor extended the return date to Friday.

In a brief statement, Jaworski's office said, "In agreeing to the White House request, Mr. Jaworski emphasized the grand jury's need for the material covered under this subpoena."

The prosecutor's office refused to give details about the material subpoenaed.

And, in a related matter, lawyers for two former White House aides said they will not go to the Supreme Court to try to block transmission of the secret grand jury report on President Nixon's Watergate role to the House impeachment inquiry.

"We've just decided that we've stated our objections and our warnings as forcefully as we can and the government has decided to take the risk," said John Bray, who represents Gordon C. Strachan.

John J. Wilson, lawyer for former presidential chief of staff H.R. Haldeman, declined to comment on the decision not to appeal.

An appeals court had given them until 5 p.m. today to carry the matter to the Supreme Court when it acted Thursday upholding the decision to give the report to the House inquiry.

Haldeman and Strachan were among seven persons indicted March 1 in connection with the Watergate cover-up. President Nixon had not opposed delivery of the report to the House committee.

Deputy presidential Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren refused last week to say whether the President planned to comply with the prosecutor's subpoena. He said it was being handled routinely by White House lawyers.

A spokesman for Jaworski said the subpoena did not involve the Watergate cover-up or White House plumbers cases, in which indictments recently were returned.

That means the material sought probably relates to investigations of the ITT antitrust settlement, dairy industry political contributions or the 18.5-minute erasure found on one subpoenaed tape.

If the President refuses to comply with the subpoena, Jaworski could go to court to ask for an order directing the President to turn over the subpoenaed material.

The White House, meanwhile, has denied a published report that it would give to the House impeachment inquiry tapes of 42 presidential conversations the committee has been trying to obtain. The report appeared in the Los Angeles Times, but Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said no decision had been made to provide additional tapes to the committee.

Sign says it all

The sign in front of the John C. Stewart home near Campbell tells the story for peach growers in that area for this year. Extremely cold temperatures, coupled with frost and freezing rain, is believed to have killed almost all of the peach blossoms in the Campbell area. Peach trees had bloomed about one month early this year due to warm weather.

Growers fear peaches lost

The fight Thursday night with helicopters and smudge pots to save the 1974 peach crop may have been in vain due to Saturday night's snow and frigid temperatures which fell into the low to middle teens. However, peach growers in the area will not be able to determine the full extent of the damage for a few days.

Several peach growers contacted this morning were hesitant about making a statement until trees and blossoms thaw out, so they can better survey the entire orchards.

Carlton Stewart of Campbell, one of the largest commercial peach growers in Southeast Missouri, said Sunday he thought, at that time, that the crop would be a total loss. Although he could not be reached for comment this morning, Mr. John C. Stewart of Campbell said that "it looks like just about a clean sweep...a total loss at Stewart Fruit Center."

Stewart Fruit Co., Inc. has 400 acres of peach trees, 250 of which are at the fruit-bearing age.

David Diebold of Kelso, one of the managers of Diebold's Orchard Inc., said Saturday's low temperatures did a considerable amount of damage but the firm is still optimistic that it will have some peaches. He added that it is "kind of early to tell for sure."

Diebold explained that some varieties may have survived while some may have been wiped out. "Anything that was open was killed," he added, although not all varieties of trees were in bloom. Diebold's has 30 acres in production and about 30 different varieties of peaches.

Harrington draws 40-year sentence

BENTON--- James "Peterboy" Harrington, 24, of Sikeston was sentenced by Judge Marshall Craig in Circuit Court today to 40 years in custody of the State Department of Corrections on a second- degree murder conviction in connection with the 1971 slaying of Kenneth Ellison of Sikeston.

Judge Craig also overruled a motion for a new trial which had been filed in Harrington's behalf. Appeal bond was set at $50,000.

Harrington was found guilty on Jan. 31, but the jury was unable to agree on a sentence.

Ellison, 22 years old at the time of his death, was shot once in the chest with a .22- caliber pistol while participating in a dice game early on Sept. 19, 1971 in the Sunset Addition of Sikeston.

Police issued a warrant for Harrington's arrest after the shooting, but he was not apprehended until Sept. 20, 1973, when he was arrested in Chicago by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents.

Harrington fought extradition back to Missouri but lost, and was returned to Scott County by Sheriff John Dennis.

Error in court record

A warrant was not issued for the arrest of Mary L. Alsup, Route Two, for failing to appear in City Court Thursday on a speeding charge, as reported in Friday's edition of The Daily Standard.

Police said today that an error was made in the court records and that Mrs. Alsup was not scheduled to appear in court that day.

Murder charge filed against Jim Harris

First-degree murder charges have been filed against Jim Harris, 47, of 201 Luther St., for the Sunday night shooting death of Enoch Simmons, 29, 1917 W. North St.

The charges were filed today by Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Jim Moore.

Harris was dead on arrival at 11:35 p.m. at Missouri Delta Community Hospital, but he was officially pronounced deat at 12:05 a.m. today by Coroner Gene Nunnelee.

Detective Sgt. Jack Patterson said Simmons was shot three times while standing inside Harris' Cafe, 201 Luther St. The shooting reportedly followed an argument.

Harris reportedly had thrown Simmons out of the cafe earlier and Simmons was shot when he returned. Witnesses said Simmons had been armed earlier, but was not armed when he returned. Reportedly he did have his hand in his pocket, Patterson said.

Simmons was shot three times with a .38- caliber revolver from a distance of about 10 feet, Patterson said. One bullet entered the right side and exited the left side, a second bullet entered the chest and exited through the back. The third struck and lodged in the lower left arm.

Patterson said when police arrived at the scene, Harris was waiting, pulled the .38- caliber revolver out of his pocket and gave it to police. Police said he identified himself and said he was ready to go.

Officers involved in the investigation were Patterson, Detective Dan Hinton, Capt. Lawrence Woodward, Cpl. Charles Sherrard, Officer John Martin and Scott County Sheriff's Deputy Bud Jones.

Simmons body was removed to Dodson Funeral Home following an examination at the hospital. Nunnelee said no autopsy was scheduled.

Harris was being held in city jail this morning without bond.

The slaying was the third in Sikeston this year. The first occurred Jan. 27, when Vivian Holland, 1409 Henry St., allededly killed her husband with a shotgun while he sat in the kitchen of the family home.

The second slaying occurred Feb. 16 when Jessie James Perkins, 117 Petty St., was shot to death on Thompson St. Robert Lee Williams, 19, of 111 Thompson St. has been charged with the crime.

ASK RANDOLPH HEARST

Suppose for a moment that you were suffering the agony of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Hearst. Now suppose that a handful of well-intentioned but misdirected members of Congress were attempting to destroy the only reliable source of public information on terrorist groups such as the one that holds your daughter captive.

In this setting, the plight of the House Committee on Internal Security would come quickly into focus. the HCIS, which investigates groups or organizations which seek to overthrow our government by force or violence, is under fire by some congressmen who, in effect, want to pull its teeth.

They are led by liberal Rep. Richard Bolling (D-Mo.), chairman of the Select Committee on Committees, who proposes to transfer the HCIS to the overworked House Judiciary Committee where it would likely sink from sight in no time.

The Committee, and its forefunner, the House Committee on Un-American Activities, have long been targets of an assortment of individuals ranging from the dangerously ill-informed to just the dangerous. Now, however, in the public hysteria of Watergate, the threat of this coalition is greater than ever.

During the past several years, the HCIS has investigated an assortment of revolutionary groups in the United States ranging from the Black Panther Party to the Students for a Democratic Society. It has held hearings aimed at safeguarding industrial facilities vital to the U. S. defense program against acts of espionage, sabotage and subversion. And it has issued various reports and studies including one on "kidnappings as a political weapon by Marxists guerrillas and extremists.

Citizens who believe such work is important and should continue can help see that it does by writing their congressmen and by writing Rep. Bolling in care of the Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20515.

ENDING THE GAS SHORTAGE

As our gasoline shortage becomes acute, far too many people speak of rationing as a cure-all, or a better government allocation system, or putting new restrictions on oil companies. But none of these actions, however ideologically or emotionally satisfying to some, will provide us with one drop of gasoline.

We need gas, not bureaucrats and punishments. And the only way to get more gas is to make it profitable to produce and market more under today's conditions. This means letting the price of gas rise to its free market level.

This has been done in nearly every Western European country, with the result that there is no gas shortage there. Drivers have cut back their gas usage voluntarily to what they really need and are able to pay for. There are no long lines. Gas in Europe always has been much more costly than in the U.S.

Some denounce "windfall profits" for oil companies. In fact, government has long held the price of gas below its natural market level, so that oil companies have made few profits for some time.

In a recent speech about the gas shortage to the National Association of Manufacturers, Dr. Henry Manne, professor of law and political science at the University of Rochester, spoke words rarely heard nowadays from professors: "Profits serve as a correct and efficient signal for the production of more goods."

There are many ways to help the poor who might truly suffer from higher gas prices. We can be sure they will suffer, along with everyone else, if gas increasingly becomes unavailable at any price.

EAGLETON WANTS MORE TO GET BENEFITS

Sen. Tom Eagleton has introduced legislation to provide flood disaster loans at a low interest rate of 1% to flood disaster victims whose communities had not qualified for the insurance at the time of the disaster.

Such loans are available in Paris and other cities and areas that have qualified by zoning that restricts construction to other than flood- prone areas.

His bill, if passed, would make such loans available to much of the river areas of the county.

Eagleton's action is in line with his customary willingness to work at measures that will help and be fair to the people of his state and others.

A NEW APPROACH

Up to this time, past experience has indicated that it generally took some $2 million, an effort of 2 to 4 years and an enrollment of at least 20,000 for a new prepaid group practice system, or Health Maintenance Organization as they are called, capable of providing complete medical services for its members to break even. By contrast, the Wisconsin plan was started up at an initial cost of only $50,000 and is doing well with an enrollment of 17,000 members. From the patient's standpoint, the most important aspect of the Health Maintenance Plan in Wisconsin is that it delivers complete medical services within the present health care delivery system without regimenting either doctors or patients. With 90 per cent of the doctors in the area participating, the individual can choose virtually any doctor he wishes and each person can decide whether or not he wants to take part in the plan. Extensive out- patient benefits make it unnecessary to use expensive hospital facilities unless they are actually needed. As the Madison, Wisconsin State Journal put it, "... HMP virtually cocoons a patient in protective health benefits, all of which are paid for in full."

It should be emphasized that no single method of delivering health services is going to bring medical Utopia to all people under all circumstances. The Wisconsin Health Maintenance Plan simply demonstrates the value of preserving the freedom to innovate, the incentives for excellence and the individuality of our medical system. We have already created the financing mechanism, the administrative expertise and the medical know-how required to meet the health needs of our people in a manner that far surpasses the wildest dreams of any system of state medicine ever devised.

HISTORY SWALLOWS ITS OWN TAIL

Along with all its other effects, Watergate is spurring scholars to unearth all kinds of historical oddments bearing on some of the constitutional issues involved.

The question of executive privilege, for example, apparently arose as far back as the second term of President George Washington.

In 1795, Washington's secretary of state, Edmund Randolph, resigned in the face of allegations that he had passed state secrets to the French government. To clear his name, Randolph asked Washington's permission to make public certain letters and conversations between himself and the President.

According to historian Thomas Flexner, recipient this year of a Pulitzer Prize for his biography of Washington, the first president "was confronted with a clear case of whether to cling to executive privilege, and he chose not to."

Although he knew that publication of his communications with Randolph could damage the country's international relations, says Flexner, Washington decided that it was more important to retain public confidence that he, as president, had nothing to hide.

Again on the subject of executive privilege, it seems that in 1951 a freshman senator from California introduced a bill that would have given the chief federal judge in each judicial district the power to name, at the request of a federal grand jury, an independent prosecutor to look into a variety of scandals then rocking the Truman administration.

The rationale behind the bill was the belief that the executive branch could not properly investigate and prosecute itself for wrongdoing.

Its sponsor was named Richard M. Nixon.

THE THREE BONES

An Irish father was seeing his son off on the steamship to a new land where the lad was going with the intention of seeking his fortune in a new way of life.

"Now, Michael, my boy," said the elderly man, as they parted, "remember the three bones, and ye'll always get along all right."

A stranger standing nearby overheard the remark, and when the ship had gone, he inquired of the old gentleman what three bones he had referred to in his parting advice to his son.

"Sure, now," responded the old Irishman, "and wouldn't it be the wishbone and the jawbone and the backbone? It's the wishbone that keeps you going after things, and it's the jawbone that helps you find out how to go after them if you are not too proud to ask a question when there's something you don't know, and it's the backbone that keeps you at it till you get there!"

We have the habit of rushing frantically here and there, without much aim or direction. We seem to think that if we just keep going at a terrific pace we are getting something done. Actually, we should accomplish much more if we could be clam, quiet, and poised.

Dr. Rufus M. Jones points out the difference between a merry-go-round and a canal lock. On a merry- go-round you do a lot of traveling, but you get off at the same place you got on. In a canal lock you don't travel anywhere, but you are lifted to a higher level. What are we — a merry-go-round or a canal lock?

THE GREATER YIELD

Two young hikers were going through a part of the country where water seemed scarce. Upon inquiry, a man led them down a little path where, under overhanging leaves, a clear spring bubbled up.

As the boys refreshed themselves, the man told them how he had discovered the spring many years ago. He had scraped away moist leaves to find a little pool of very cold water. He feared to reveal the discovery.

"But my fears were all for nothing," laughed the man. "The more the neighbors used the spring, the more water there was for me. If I were young and starting out like you, I'd never be afraid to share all the good things life gave to me. They yield more for being shared with others"

ONE MORE ROUND

In the estimation of many, Jim Corbett was the greatest boxer that ever lived. He seldom lost a bout. His opponents were astonished at his capacity to weather their most punishing blows and to keep going. Often his demonstration of endurance discouraged them to the extent that they voluntarily gave up the fight.

Jim Corbett ascribed his capacity to his philosophy of success. He said:

"Fight one more round!

"When your feet are so tired that you have to shuffle back to the center of the ring — fight one more round.

"When your arms ache so that you can hardly lift them up on guard — fight one more round.

"When you feel bruised all over and you wish your opponent would crack you on the jaw and put you to sleep — fight one more round.

"I always remember that the man who fights one more round is never whipped."

Men and women who have succeeded in life have usually followed the same formula, and fought "one more round"

Audubon, the greatest of all bird painters, spent fifteen years in making sketches of birds, and left them in a trunk. When he went to look for them, he discovered that rats had nibbled his drawings to shreds.

Isaac Newton's dog tore a manuscript to pieces that had represented the work of a quarter of his lifetim

But these men did not use their discouragement as a convenient excuse for giving up the fight. All of them went back to work and made another try for success.

Men who get ahead in industry, or in every other phase of life, will always be the men who, like Jim Corbett, are determined to "fight one more round."

POOR MAN'S BEST FRIEND

Even though our nation has unsurpassed opportunities and facilities for education, we remain poor in teaching a fundamental American concept: our business system. Through the years it has reduced poverty and raised our standard of living to the highest of any large nation in the world.

Even among the higher echelons of learning, the true purposes and objectives of business profit have been grossly misinterpreted.

The truth is that profit does not cause high prices. The profit incentive saves consumers money because it stimulates competition which results in the lowest possible prices for the highest possible quality products.

Legitimate profit is the greatest engine of human betterment ever devised by man. It is the poor man's best friend.

The only way we can live better is by producing more for each other — not by trying to get what we want by forced extraction from each other with no equal value supplied in return.

Nixon Tailors Programs To Suite Die- Hard Supporters

WASHINGTON-- President Nixon's total legislative- public relations strategy reportedly is now geared to defending himself from impeachment and conviction.

Sources privy to the inner councils say the White House has compiled a list of 34 to 39 hard- core conservative senators whose votes the President is counting upon to save himself from removal. All he needs are 34 votes to prevent the Senate from throwing him out of office.

The President is partly tailoring his legislative program, say our sources, to appeal to the die- hard senators. Since they are all strong conservatives, he will take a stand against certain consumer, environmental, and social programs they despise.

Already he has backed away from the Consumer Protection Agency which his consumer adviser, Virginia Knauer, has been pushing. He has also let oil- and- gas senators know that he is fighting to exempt refineries from the environmental laws and to lift the regulation of natural gas.

At the same time, the President has carefully selected friendly, conservative audiences for his public appearances. As a veteran politician, he knows the trigger lines that will evoke applause. He wants conservative senators to hear the applause their supporters are giving the President.

He is also using psychological- political warfare, say our sources, in his fight against impeachment. He knows most politicians are cautious, and some are downright timid. They would rather avoid a confrontation; they almost always prefer to work out an amicable compromise in the backrooms.

This explains the growing clamor from the leaders on Capitol Hill for him to resign. They would like him to go away quietly and, thereby, avoid a nasty impeachment fight. Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., probably the most powerful member of Congress, has even offered to introduce legislation granting Nixon immunity from prosecution if he will resign.

But the President is throwing down the gauntlet and threatening a bruising battle. Our sources say he is counting on the Capitol Hill crowd, out of normal political caution, to back off.

But the members of Congress have an even greater political urge to be reelected. So, in the end, they probably will do what they think the voters wish.

FOOTNOTE: A White House spokesman denied that President Nixon is tailoring his legislation to impeachment, calling the charges ridiculous.

It's not too difficult to discover where the housewives' extra dollars are going.

Beef on the hoof, for example, has dropped nearly $8 per hundred weight and pork has gone down $9 since January.

Yet Missouri Beef, one of the nation's largest meat packers, has seen profits zoom a fantastic 255 per cent in the last quarter. Iowa Beef, another giant, rang up a 39 per cent increase in profits, and General Host, the owner of Swift Meats, recorded a 43 per cent rise.

Nor are the supermarkets suffering. A&P, the nation's largest food chain, reported a 50- cent- per- share increase in earnings this quarter. Marcor, the owner of Jewel, watched its profits soar 61 per cent. Winn- Dixie, Giant, Lucky and Pueblo Stores are also enjoying healthy profits.

The losers are not only the consumers but the farmers. Agriculture Department sources tell us that feed grains are so high that some cattlemen are losing $150 to $200 a head.

The grain giants, of course, are doing quite well, thank you. The two largest, Cargill and Continental, don't have to report their profits because they are still privately held. But their smaller counterparts are eating high on the hog.

Cook Industries recently reported earnings of $6.86 per share, up from a mere 82 cents a year ago. The profit margin of Archer, Daniels and Midland nearly doubled. And Pillsbury, the flour titan, recorded a profit increase of 48 per cent.

In short, the processors and retailers are paying less but charging more for food, and then pocketing the difference. The prices that the shoppers pay remain high, therefore, while the prices the farmers receive are low.

The reasons aren't too difficult to figure out. Often two or three major chain stores dominate over 50 per cent of food sales in a given area. There have been charges of an unspoken "gentlemen's agreement" in some situations to keep prices and profits high.

The Federal Trade Commission is investigating some of the most blatant offenders. But there is no coordinated government policy to prevent food profiteering. And unless bread lines become as long as gas lines, there

Blacks' Firing Line:
All Gov't Agencies Launch Drive to Force Heaviest Minority Workers Hiring in History

WASHINGTON-- With all its heaviest legal guns now in line, the government is launching its widest offensive against management and labor to force a swift hiring and upgrading of millions of black, Chicano, Puerto Rican, American Indian, Oriental and women workers. This front will rumble-- and grumble-- for years.

Most of the action will thunder from the newly powerful militant Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC). For it now has taken from the Justice Department the power to go into court to punish what it believes to be discriminating corporations, inflict punitive damages and win "back pay" awards totaling millions of dollars, force the hiring of blacks and other minority workers on a one to one or two ratio with whites, and to deprive "guilty" companies from contracting with the federal government.

The new inherent power, newly refashioned, in the hands of government compliance agencies is enormous. There is, for example, the Labor Department's Office of Federal Contract Compliance headed by Phil Davis. Quietly on Feb. 14 it dispatched Order 14 to 19 compliance divisions of such agencies as the General Services Administration and Departments such as Defense.

The order said, in effect, start auditing. Do a sample run-through of the 350,000 firms doing business with the U. S. Here's how to do it, what to look for, what steps to take to conduct the compliance review in search of alleged discrimination against black and other minority workers, the ladies included.

The "implementation date" is April 15. After that-- the action. Order 14 was cosigned by Labor Secretary Pete Brennan, Assistant Secretary Bernard DeLury and Davis.

It will be tough. How tough can be learned from equally militant action taken by the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division which went after the big corporations, especially the utilities with its "pattern and practice" charges of discrimination against minority workers.

Most famous case is the Justice Department's suit against the Detroit Edison Co. In October 1973 a federal judge hit the utility with almost everything he could. He fined it $4 million for punitive damages. And back pay not only for most of the 853 (out of 11,500) black employes, but for those who applied and weren't hired since 1965 and those who didn't apply because they believed they wouldn't be hired.

Further he ruled, for example, that these black persons must be hired for every two whites in "trades" jobs; and accelerated hiring in all jobs and maintenance of this formula until 30 per cent of the work force is black.

Also the promotion of a black person to supervisor for every white so promoted. The utility has retained former Secretary of State (former Attorney General) William Rogers for its appeal before the Sixth Circuit in Cincinnati. He'll take it to the Supreme Court if necessary.

A tougher minority hiring policy was imposed by the EEOC on the El Paso Natural Gas Co. last January. The utility agreed that at least 56.8 per cent of all "new hires" in the home office would be Spanish- surnamed Americans, American Indians, blacks and females. In the field these minorities would get 70 per cent of all new hiring. There also was a retroactive salary grant to some employes totaling more than $250,000.

In the Georgia Power Co. case, the Justice Department won a final court order last January for a back pay of no less than $2.1 million. This money, says the Justice Department, goes to "black victims of job discrimination." This is the largest actual award under final decree. It took five years. Now the company must increase its black employment to 17 per cent of the work force in five years.

The Virginia Electric and Power Co. and eight electrical workers' local unions were charged with discrimination against blacks. The company was forced to pay $250,000 back pay-- in 1971. Point is, the Detroit and Georgia cases show a meteoric rise in money penalties.

Typical of the enforced hiring clauses is the Piedmont Natural Gas Co., Inc., of North Carolina. It is required to hire blacks in five job categories until the minority workers fill 20 per cent of the jobs. One black must be hired for each white under this pact in some categories.

Also, the company was ordered to develop a pool of black job applicants.

Or, there is the Louisville Gas and Electric Co. which was ordered to recruit and hire blacks in certain job classifications on a one- for- one basis with whites until the black employe ratio reflects the county's black population-- 14 per cent.

There you have the instances of "pattern and practice" actions brought by the Justice Department. Now John Powell's EEOC swings into action in the private sector, the Justice Department in the public arena (cities-states) if asked by EEOC, and the Labor Department will hit the purveyors to the government itself.

If the drive succeeds it will develop into one of the most massive social upheavals in

Some provisions of campaign reform bill draw reservations

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State government leaders, while generally happy with a campaign reform bill given first-round approval in the Missouri House, express some reservation about a few provisions of the measure.

The product of compromise between Republicans, who primarily favored stringent limitations on spending and contributions, and the Democratic House leadership who preferred a more liberal approach with complete disclosure bearing the brunt of reform, the measure is expected to receive final approval and go to the Senate this week.

Fifteen amendments were tacked onto the bill, sponsored by Rep. Kenneth Rothman, D-Clayton, the House Democratic floor leader. Twenty-six attempts were made to amend it.

Included is an amendment which establishes a bi-partisan commission to enforce the spending and reporting limitations. Rothman's bill had provided that authority to the secretary of state, an approach favored by most Democrats.

Under the current bill, candidates and committees would be required to submit reports to the secretary of state, but the commission would maintain enforcement authority. The commission would be appointed by the governor with Senate consent from nominees submitted by the Supreme Court.

Reports would be required to be filed 30 and seven days before and 30 days after an election.

Proponents of that provision said it was necessary to let the people know how candidates had spent their money and who had contributed.

Eliminated from the bill was a check-off system under which Missouri Taxpayers could designate $1 on income tax forms. That provision was favored by state Treasurer James Spainhower and many other Democrats.

All candidates spending more than $500 in a campaign would be covered by the reporting provisions of the bill.

Contributions of $25 or less would have to be reported, listing the donor's name and address. Contributions of under $25 would have to be reported in total, but would not have to be listed with the donor.

Spending limitation in the bill were criticized by Gov. Bond as being unrealistic. He thinks a limitation of $287,000 for a statewide race should be raised. The $287,000 figure is Bond's estimate of the limit.

The bill limits statewide candidates to expenditures of $6.25 per 100 residents of the state or $12.50 per 100 voters in the last presidential election. Other candidates could spend $12.50 for each 100 residents or $25 for each 100 voters.

House Speaker Rabbitt disagrees with the governor.

"What we wanted to accomplish," he said, "was a limitation on expenses that would allow someone to run (for statewide office; without being a millionaire."

He cited a number of wealthy candidates including Bond and Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth who have been successful in politics.

Rabbitt disagreed with an assertion by Charles Valier, the governor's assistant, that the restriction on expenses would favor incumbants.

Valier said as a result of the office he holds, an incumbent candidate for statewide office, especially governor, would hold a marked advantage over challangers because of extensive media exposure.

"It works both ways," Rabbitt contended. He said the occupant of the governor's office is sure to receive criticism in the media and that criticism would have an effect on voters.

He said he hoped the limitation would lead to television providing "more public affairs programs and less purchased Madison Avenue type advertising."

Rabbitt supported the concept of allowing banks, corporations and labor unions contribute to campaigns.

"We feel," he said, "that as long as people know where they money is coming from, they can make a decision accordingly."

Rabbitt said he had supported campaign reform for a number of years and was generally pleased with the form of the bill.

However, he cited some provisions as possibly being "too restrictive."

Among them is a limitation of $25 for anonymous contributions. He said such a restriction might limit the small contributor and result in greater reliance upon large donations.

Critics of that exemption have said candidates could receive thousands of contributions of $24 each and not be required to report names and addresses of contributors.

Republican Floor Leader Robert Snyder of Kirkwood proposed an amendment to the bill which would have limited nondisclosure of names and addresses of contributors of $5 or less. He withdrew the amendment when it appeared that many Democrats would not support it, and substituted the $25 figure. Rothman's bill originally called for a $100 upper limit.

Snyder, who led a floor attempt by Republicans to amend the Rothman measure, said he had reservations about allowing corporations, banks and labor unions contribute to campaigns.

He said it was opening up an avenue for big money because corporations are not allowed now under state law to contribute.

Snyder said the argument that such contributions would be made, whether prohibited or not, was a specious one. Prohibiting the contributios, he said, would make the procedure "cumbersome and burdensome," and would have the effect of limiting them even if they were not completely eliminated.

The allowance of such contributions is widely different from current law, which allows contributions from voluntary committees using only their own money.

Under another provision of the bill, reporting by political committees has been significantly strengthened. A candidate must now designate an official committee and all expenses and contributors to subsidiary committees must be funnelled through the main one.

Centralized filing of expense reports by committees is another marked departure from current law. Committees may now file reports in the county where they are formed and in some instances out-of-state committees have filed reports in the state where they were functioning.

Penalty provisions of the bill have drawn some criticism as not being strong enough. Violations could result in a fine of up to $1,000 or a one-year jail sentence or both.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures were higher in early dealings on the Chicago Board of Trade today, but the other major commodities were uneven.

On the opening, wheat was 3 to 5 cents a bushel higher, May 4.93; corn was 1½ lower to ½ higher, May 3.03; oats were unchanged to 1½ higher, May 1 .42 and soybeans were 3 lower to 2 higher, May 6.38.

The onion has little or no taste, but it has a very strong odor, which is what one "tastes" when eating it.

Teen's mother not a 'Mrs. Robinson'

Dear Ann: I'm 37, the mother of a beautiful teenage daughter who comes by her looks naturally. (I was a finalist in a national beauty contest in the late '50s). We look more like sisters than mother and daughter. Like many other women, I do my housework in the nude. When the weather is pleasant I slip out for a skinny -dip in our secluded, private pool. My husband takes frequent business brips but when he's home he often joins me.

Our daughter has a handsome 17 -year -old boyfriend. In spite of Rick's tender age, I find myself attracted to him. He has always treated me with respect and I've kept my infatuation well concealed.

Last week I was enjoying a nudie swim when Rick suddenly appeared at the side of the pool. I was speechless with embarrassment To make me feel "at ease," he calmly disrobed and joined me. Rick is built like a Greek god and we cavorted playfully in reckless abandon. It ended when he kissed me in a way that made my head twirl

Now Rick wants me to be his "Mrs. Robinson," arguing that many middle -aged women have young lovers. I'm tempted, but scared to death. If my daughter found out she'd be furious.

I have a 33 -year -old divorced neighbor who would be crazy about Rick. I've thought of introducing them to get him off my trail. In the meantime, I'm having nightmares. I haven't been skinny -dipping since. This letter is no phony from Yale. It's a REAL problem, and I need help in --Marin County

Dear Marin: Inform Rick that he is not welcome to drop around your pool uninvited. When he comes to see your daughter, get lose, Ma. And don't introduce him to anybody. I'll bet this kid already knows several middle -aged women. Let's hope Rick doesn't have a loose lip or you could be in for the hassle of your life.

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of the recent research project which revealed that men who smoke pipes are viewed by women as "sexier, superior intellects, more mature, sincere, attractive, stable and masculine"? This survey was conducted by a local psychology institue. Can a pipe give a man all those enviable qualities? --Bay Area Ann Fan

Dear Bay: A pipe can't give a man ANY of those enviable qualitites. The survey merely said women VIEW men who smoke pipes as "sexier, superior intellects, etc."

Did you know the research project was commissioned by a pipe manufacturer in Burlingame, California?

Dear Ann Landers: I've been reading your column for 20 years and you are a quack. My diagnosis is based on a detailed computerized analysis. You have produced only 79 original answers since 1953. Since you write seven days a week, this means you give only one honest -to -goodness reply every 93 days.

The other 92 days you sneak by with "seek professional help" or "see your clergyman" or "you Yale guys make me sick. Knock it off." You are a phony. -- Close Observer

Dear C.O.: I've been writing this column for 18 years, not 20. Among your other "gifts" are you also a clairvoyant? You'd have to be to see me coming two years before I appeared.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism- Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35c in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self -addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Vitamin "E" + "C" Combo. with R.A.F. Diet Offers Fast Weight Loss

LOS ANGELES (Special) — The new combination of Vitamin "E" + "C" in tablet form used with the new R.A.F. Diet Control has been found to give excellent results in weight loss when followed according to its simple instructions. And reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country with reports of quick weight loss while still eating most of the foods you are used to.

Those who follow the simple plan report an average loss of at least a pound a day and even more without exercise or starvation. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon and eggs and still lose weight.

The Vitamin "E" + "C" tabs used with the diet plan supply you with the M.D.R. which otherwise may be lost when enrolled in the weight control plan.

The use of the new Vitamain "E" Plus "C" Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body keep fit and not suffer from hunger pangs. This is a solid common sense diet plan—100% safe — no unpleasant side effects.

FFA contest judging to be held at Dexter

CAPE GIRARDEAU-- The first phase of the annual Future Farmers of America agriculture judging contest coordinated by the Southeast Missouri State University department of agriculture will be conducted Wednesday at Dexter High School.

Officer interviews and the farm mechanics phase of the spring competition will be held on that day. Both are scheduled to get under way at 3:30 p.m.

The farm mechanics competition is divided into three areas. The competition is scored on a team basis, but only one member of a three-member team judges a particular area.

In area one there is arc welding, farm power and farm machinery. Area two embraces oxy- acetylene welding, tool identification and wood working. Area three is made up of blumbing, concrete and electricity.

There is also a written examination which the judges in each area must complete.

The remaining portions of the annual competition will be held on the Southeast Missouri State campus April 5- 6.

Contests to be conducted on April 5 will be animal husbandry, soils, poultry, milk quality and dairy foods and farm management. The competitive categories for April 6 are dairy cattle, ornamental horticulture, field crops, meats, public speaking, creed speaking and parliamentary procedure.

Hospital assistance bills become focus of political test

JEFFERSON CITY — Two bills to provide aid to Missouri hospitals have become the focus of a political test of wills that could end with neither of them being written into law this year.

One bill would establish a maternal and child health care program that was proposed by Gov. Christopher S. Bond in his annual budget message. The other, supported by the legislature's Democratic leadership, would provide direct financial aid to hospitals that have incurred expenses in excess of income from patient service fees.

The maternal and child health care program is designed to assist hospitals in identifying and providing better prenatal care for mothers who have a high risk of giving birth to mentallly retarded children. It also would provide better post natal care for the children.

The governor asked that $5 million be appropriated from the state's general revenue sharing funds to finance the program for the first year. "Since the cost of maintaining one individual for life in one of our mental retardation institutions exceeds $500,000, this program would more than pay for itself if we prevent retardation in only 10 people, Bond said in his budget message.

The bill to provide direct aid to hospitals is similar to a proposal that was passed during the last session, but vetoed by the governor on the grounds that it did not specify where the money would be used. He feels that categorical assistance to a specific program, like he has proposed, is a more efficient method of allocating state funds.

The direct aid program, as it is now written, would pay up to 33 per cent of the difference between a hospital's gross revenues and gross expenditures. The assistance would be available to any hospital operated by a city, county or hospital district, or any not- for- profit corporation operating under a contract with some political subdivision. Estimated cost of the program's first year is $17 million.

The measure was introduced in the current session despite predictions that the governor would veto any plan to provide direct aid to hospitals for a second time.

Aware of the veto threat, Rep. John Scott (R-St. Louis), the sponsor of the direct aid bill, was succesful in amending his proposal onto the health care bill. Scott admitted his intention was to strengthen the chances that the governor would sign the direct aid bill by facing him with the choice of approving or vetoing both.

The chances the two measures will reach the governor in their present form appear good.

Early in the session, Sen. William J. Cason, the Senate president pro tem, came out in support of the direct aid bill, but criticized the health care proposal as a "welfare program" that would face heavy going in the Senate.

He has softened his position since then, however. He told a reporter last week he was not opposed to the maternal and child health care program so long as it is not used as a substitute for direct assistance to hospitals troubled by financial deficits.

Both programs have merit, Cason said, but were designed to do different things. The maternal and child health care program would not solve the fiscal problems of urban hospitals, he said.

What's the law?

The case of the cooperative citizen

By JACK STRAUSS LL.B.

Wilbur's automobile was in first class condition. However, it ended up in first- crash condition, after a sheriff flagged him down one night.

In order to catch a wanted desperado, the sheriff decided to set up a roadblock and ordered Wilbur to park his car across the public highway. Instead of the desperado, Mr. Wimple came driving along, unable to stop in time, he slammed head- on into Wilbur's haplessly parked vehicle.

And, if that wasn't enough to make poor Wilburn sit down and cry, Mr. Wimple sued him for his injuries.

"I'm just lucky I'm not playing a harp in some heavely quartet," complained Mr. Wimple in court. "Stupid Wilburn parked his car right across the highway."

"But, that's what the sheriff ordered me to do," was Wilbur's answer. "And , since he was the sheriff, I figured I had no choice. Certainly, a man can't be sued for being a cooperative citizen."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make cooperative Wilbur pay for Mr. Wimple's injuries?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that when a police officer commandeers a private vehicle and directs that it be parked across a highway to form a roadblock,the owner of the vehicle cannot be held liable to persons injured thereby as a matter of public policy. What's more, concluded the judge, as a matter of public policy, the county can be held responsible to Wilbur for the destruction of his motor vehicle.

Aspects of farming explained to Kiwanis

Farmers are in the best position they have been in many years because there is now a market for any crop or product produced on the farm, John Garrett, extension area agronomist, told members of the Optimist Club at 6:45 a.m. today at the El Capri Restaurant.

He added that this would hold true unless spring weather conditions prohibited full production of the crops.

Garrett said that the adverse side of farming this year is a shortage of inputs for agriculture, such as fertilizer and equipment.

In the last year fertilizer prices have jumped from $70 a ton to $200 a ton, when available. Garrett said part of the shortage was caused by the selling of surplus fertilizer to foreign countries who were willing to pay higher prices.

The equipment shortage is due mostly to the steel shortage, Garrett told the group.

During the meeting, it was announced that the second annual Tri- Star basketball program, an Optimist International project, will be held April 20 in Sikeston, the details of which will be announced later.

Smoking in bed causes fire

Firemen said the blaze was started by someone smoking in bed.

Damage was confined to the mattress and the springs.

Woman won't be charged in fatal shooting

CARUTHERSVILLE– Prosecuting Attorney Art Stephenson Jr. has declined to press charges stemming from a fatal shooting which occurred in Caruthersville late Thursday night.

Stephenson said Paulette Cross, 27, of Caruthersville admitted shooting her ex-boyfriend, Bobby Lynn McCutcheon three times but said she shot in self- defense.

The incident occurred around 11 p.m. at Mrs. Cross's residence at 1609 Carroll when McCutcheon went to her home and began to berate her for apparently signing a complaint charging him with a disturbance after he came to her home drunk in recent weeks. Mrs. Cross said he threatened to beat her up and started to grab her when she ran to get a pistol, ordering him to leave. He cursed her again and grabbed at her when she fired the gun three times, authorities said.

McCutcheon died within minutes after police officers arrived, having been summoned to the scene to quell the disturbance.

Prosecutor Stephenson said McCutcheon was free on bond at the time of his death on a charge of assaulting a police officer, stemming from an incident in the county jail last December, when McCutcheon walked into the jail drunk and began quarreling with Deputy Sheriff Maurice Malin. Authorities said Malin told the man to go home and was walking him to the front door when McCutcheon pushed the deputy through an eight- foot plate glass window. Malin and McCutcheon suffered minor abrasions.

Authorities said McCutcheon had a history of violent temper while intoxicated and had been arrested several times in recent years on several burglary charges and numerous misdemeanor violations.

Thomas named coach of year

Thomas, who led the Bears into the final round of the small college tournament at Evansville, received the award Sunday night at the NCAA post season banquet here. Southwest lost the NCAA College DIVISION TITLE to Morgan State, 67-52, finishing its season 21-9.

Showdown set

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Norman Sloan of North Carolina State and Al McGuire of Marquette, two basketball coaches who believe strongly in love, were down to the final game of the season tonight as their teams met for the NCAA championship.

"This team is made up of men who truly love one another — that's why it has been a winner," said Sloan, 47-year-old Indiana native who played in the backcourt at N.C. State 25 years ago under legendary Everett Case.

Sloan said the family feeling generated by his players toward each other and their coaches has made them a team.

Sloan conceded it took while before junior college transfers Moe Rivers and Phil Spence, new to the squad this season, fit in comfortably as members of the family.

McGuire said before Marquette began its season, "It's definitely going to depend upon if the players really love each other or just make believe and have their love affairs with the semi agents who will tout them and blow their heads out of proportion."

The N.C. State Wolfpack, No. 1 in the nation and 29-1 on the season with a 27-game winning streak, is averaging 92 points a game.

Marquette, ranked No. 3 on a 26-4 record, traditionally has been a defensive leader under McGuire, who regards his swarming defense as part of his offense.

His warriors are 104-11 for their last four seasons. In those 115 games they have yielded more than 75 points only 11 times, twice in overtime games.

The Wolfpack recovered from an 11-point deficit to end UCLA's bid for an eighth straight NCAA title with an 8077 double overtime victory over the Bruins as Thompson led the way with 28 points. Incredibly, State wiped out a seven-point UCLA lead in the second extra period.

Marquette, trailing 24-23 at halftime, rallied to clip Big Eight champion Kansas 64-51 as Maurice Lucas scored 18 points.

The N.C. State-Marquette game, set for 9:10 p.m., EDT, will be televised nationally by NBC. It will follow a 6:35 p.m. third place game between Kansas and UCLA.

Kansas Coach Ted Owens says his Jayhawks are eager for the chance to show they are better than they appeared against Marquette.

UCLA Coach John Wooden is frank to admit neither he nor his team likes consolation games. He said his policy is to give most of the playing time to players who have not seen as much service over the year and let his seniors determine whether they want to play.

Wooden said one senior indicated he might not play. Wooden would not identify him, but hinted that it was 6-foot-11 Bill Walton, three-time AllAmerican.

Essex No. 1

VANDUSER--- Essex romped to the championship of the Vanduser Men's independent basketball tournament Friday night, using a full court zone press in the fourth quarter to run up 50 points and the 133-99 victory over Lilbourn.

Lilbourn jumped out to a 24-23 lead in the first quarter before Essex moved ahead 55-45 at the half, but failed to put their smaller opponents away as Lilbourn bounced back to within seven (83-76) at the end of three before inserting its devastating full court press for the victory.

Pat McClarty continued to burn the nets for Lilbourn and had his third straight night of 30 or better, pumping in 38 to take the Most Valuable player honor of the event. He was backed by Mitchell Allen's 25.

Essex will compete in the Southeast Missouri Men's independent basketball championships at Risco next week. Anyone interested in entering a team should contact Ron Jaynes at 471-6980 or 357-4447.

Church league banquet

The Sikeston's Church League basketball organization held it's first annual banquet Thursday night at the Sikeston National Guard Armory.

Honored at the banquet were the first and second place teams in the League. An award was also given to the team that displayed the best sportsman during the tournament. This award was decided on by the League Commission, the Team coaches, and the referees.

Coach Chuck Leible's Catholic Church Team placed first in the tournament. The First Methodist Church team placed second, the Methodist Team was coached by Dick McDougal and Rob Mitchell. The sportsmanship award went to the Trinity Baptist Chruch.

The League is made of 13 teams composed of Junior and Senior high students that take a active part in their church.

The Reverend Paul Walker served as the athletic director for the tournament. Reverend Walker is a member of the Sikeston Minsterial Alliance, this alliance sponsored the event.

Although this was the first banquet held for the League, the League has been in existance for nearly 20 years.

Jack Britt was chairman for the banquet and a large crowd attended.

Cruz's top card

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Jose and Hector Cruz must be wondering what you have to do to stick with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Jose, a 26-year-old outfielder who lost the starting job in center for the Cards this spring, smacked a double and drove in three runs Sunday as St. Louis bounced the Cincinnati Reds, 5-2 for their ninth exhibition win against five losses.

But at least Jose is still on the Redbirds' roster. Younger brother Hector, a 20-year-old rookie, is not. He was one of those sent across town Sunday to the Cards' minor league complex as they trimmed their roster to 31 players.

And all he did to deserve that was smack his third home run of the grapefruit season in the seventh to nail the lid on the St. Louis win.

And while the Cruz brothers battered the Reds at the plate, St. Louis righthander Alan Foster scattered eight hits over six innings to baffle them for the mound.

Foster, 13-9 with St. Louis last year, gave up both Cincinnati runs in his second six-inning stint this spring.

Jose Cruz opened the scoring in the first with a two-run double off Clay Kirby, then slammed in another run with a grounder in the sixth to put the game away.

The Reds had squeezed out a run in the first on a single by Johnny Bench, then tied it in the fifth when Darrel Chaney tripled to leftcenter and scored on Ken Griffey's single.

Hector Cruz wrapped up the scoring with his homer.

Other cut in the first squad reduction by the Cards were pitchers Tony Gonzalez, John Denny and Dan Larsen, catcher Marc Hill, first baseman Ed Kurpiel, and outfielders Larry Herndon and Jerry Humphrey.

The Cards announced they also returned outfielder-first baseman Jay Johnstone to the Oakland Athletics. Johnstone had been purchased conditionally by St. Louis two months ago.

Spinks traded

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Scipio Spinks will return to his home town to pitch for the Chicago Cubs as a result of a weekend deal in which he was exchanged by the St. Louis Cardinals for Jim Hickman, a veteran first baseman-outfielder.

Spinks, born and reared in Chicago, has had two injuries since joining the Cardinals early in the 1972 season when he was acquired from the Houston Astros.

The 26-year-old righthander suffered a knee injury that year and missed the rest of the season after accumulating a 5-5 record. He was sidelined because of calcium deposits in his pitching shoulder last year after acquiring a 1-5 mark.

Hickman will be 37 years old in May. He went to bat only 201 times for the Cubs last season and had three home runs and 20 runs batted in. His totals for a 12-year major league career show a .252 batting average and 986 hits.

He spent five seasons with the New York Mets, played briefly with the Los Angeles Dodges and has been with the Cubs for the last six years.

Moberly third

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Mercer County of Trenton, N.J., glided through the National Junior College basketball tournament with its crown firmly in place—until the late stages of the championship game against Chipola of Marianna, Fla.

Coming into the tournament with a 29-2 record, the New Jersey team swept aside Niagara County of Sanborn, N.Y., 80-58; Grand View of Des Moines, Iowa, 83-48 and Northeastern Oklahoma A M, 64-51.

In the finals on Saturday night, it looked like more of the same. Chipola-Marianna was trailing 44-34 with 13 minutes, 45 seconds left.

However, the outside shooting of Albert Gardner and Albert Culver came into play against the Mercer County zone defense and, with 5:12 left, it was suddenly tied, 50-all. The Florida team could do no better than tie it—the last time at 56-56— and it was Gardner's misfortune to miss a shot from the corner that well could have sent it into overtime.

The title game ended 60-58. Gardner, the best of the second-place team with 20 points, was named the tournament's most valuable player.

Seal contributions top $775 in Scott County

CAPE GIRARDEAU— Easter Seal campaign contributions in Scott County were $775.25 at the March 22 halfway point, reports Harold Kuehle, president of the Southeast Region of the Easter Seal Society of Missouri. For the entire region, comprising 23 counties, campaign receipts totaled $10,735.21.

The campaign runs through Easter Sunday, April 14.

Funds raised during the annual Easter Seal appeal provide the principal support for the society's multiple rehabilitation assistance services given to disabled children and adults. Included in these services are: braces, prostheses and equipment for home use on either a loan or purchase basis, transportation to treatment centers camping, recreation, a homebound- homecraft program, special education and therapy.

The society's basic program, information-referral- follow- up, is intended to help disabled people and their families make effective use of all community resources. When unable to meet a certain need or when a special service is available from another agency, the society makes referrals to the appropriate agency and follows up its referrals to assure that the client's needs are being fulfilled.

Requests for help for disabled persons in this area should be directed to the Easter Seal Society of Missouri, Southeast Region, 316 S. Plaza Way, Cape Girardeau, 63701. The telephone number is 335-6626.

the accident and was taken to Chaffee General Hospital. The driver of the car, Joyce Ann Kinder, 20, of Painton, was not injured.

LaDonna Wagner, 36, of Dexter was injured in an accident at 8:15 p.m. on Route A one mile south of Dexter.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Mary McMunn, 37, of Dexter skidded on an ice- covered road— and was struck by a car driven by Carolyn Young, 26, of Dexter.

Mrs. Wagner, a passenger in the McMunn car, was taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

Five persons were injured at 12:30 a.m. Sunday 10 miles south of Sikeston on Interstate 55 when Theodis Jackson, 23, of Chicago lost control of the car he was driving on icy pavement, and the vehicle struck a bridge and was thrown into the path of a tractor- trailer truck driven by William Commer, 37, of Scott City.

of peaches in two orchards--- one at Jackson and another at Cape Girardeau. The wife of Bill Beggs, who manages the Cape Girardeau orchard, said that although it is hard to tell immediately, some varieties of cling peaches may have survived the adverse weather conditions. "Some that were in full bloom were a 100 per cent total loss," Mrs. Beggs said.

At Miller's Orchard at Campbell, which is managed by Mr. and Mrs. John Flowers, 60 acres of trees are at the fruit- bearing age. Mrs. Flowers said today that they won't be able to assess the damage until this afternoon because of the dip in temperatures again last night. She did explain, as did other peach growers, that anything with open blooms was dead.

George Lovins of Dexter said he was afraid to make a statement yet. He added that it will be a few days before he can really tell what the damage is to the peach crop at C and L Orchards near Dexter.

Peach trees in the area, especially those in the more southern part of Southeast Missouri, were in full bloom, which made this year's crop more susceptible to frost. The early blooming of the trees was spurred on by unseasonably warm temperatures throughout February and early March.

In Sikeston, high and low temperatures for the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. Sunday were 42 and 16 degrees, with one- half inch of snow recorded. High and low temperatures for the period ending at 7 a.m. today were 34 and 16 degrees.

The extended forecast calls for warmer temperatures Wednesday through Friday, with highs from the 50s to 60s and lows in the 30s and 40s. There is a chance of rain about Wednesday or Thursday.

"We didn't get a free gift when we switched to First National Bank, and we really appreciate it."

We switched to First National Bank about 3 years ago on the advice of a friend. We'd just gotten married and had a lot of financial questions.

We'd seen "free" plastic coolers, cameras, silver-plated pie servers, china and other gimmicks in the ads. But we didn't want a "free" gift. We wanted a bank that understood the money problems young couples has.

Larry and I were impressed with the personal efficient service, and having our own officer to answer all our questions.

True, the president didn't come out with a "free" ice bucket or a pie-server. But our officer at First National Bank saved us money on our auto loan, set up a security savings plan for our first child and showed us how to earn an extra $60.00 a year on our savings. That sure beats a free pie-server or even a dozen ice buckets or other gimmicks.

Nixon given more time to respond

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the request of the White House, special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski today gave President Nixon four more days to respond to a subpoena demanding additional Watergate evidence.

The subpoena, issued March 15, called for a response today.

But, over the weekend James D. St.Clair, President Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, asked Jaworski for more time and the prosecutor extended the return date to Friday.

In a brief statement, Jaworski's office said, "In agreeing to the White House request, Mr. Jaworski emphasized the grand jury's need for the material covered under this subpoena."

The prosecutor's office refused to give details about the material subpoenaed.

And, in a related matter, lawyers for two former White House aides said they will not go to the Supreme Court to try to block transmission of the secret grand jury report on President Nixon's Watergate role to the House impeachment inquiry.

"We've just decided that we've stated our objections and our warnings as forcefully as we can and the government has decided to take the risk," said John Bray, who represents Gordon C. Strachan.

John J. Wilson, lawyer for former presidential chief of staff H.R. Haldeman, declined to comment on the decision not to appeal.

An appeals court had given them until 5 p.m. today to carry the matter to the Supreme Court when it acted Thursday upholding the decision to give the report to the House inquiry.

Haldeman and Strachan were among seven persons indicted March 1 in connection with the Watergate cover-up. President Nixon had not opposed delivery of the report to the House committee.

Deputy presidential Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren refused last week to say whether the President planned to comply with the prosecutor's subpoena. He said it was being handled routinely by White House lawyers.

A spokesman for Jaworski said the subpoena did not involve the Watergate cover-up or White House plumbers cases, in which indictments recently were returned.

That means the material sought probably relates to investigations of the ITT antitrust settlement, dairy industry political contributions or the 18.5-minute erasure found on one subpoenaed tape.

If the President refuses to comply with the subpoena, Jaworski could go to court to ask for an order directing the President to turn over the subpoenaed material.

The White House, meanwhile, has denied a published report that it would give to the House impeachment inquiry tapes of 42 presidential conversations the committee has been trying to obtain. The report appeared in the Los Angeles Times, but Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said no decision had been made to provide additional tapes to the committee.

In other Watergate-related developments:

—A report obtained from court records indicated the nation's largest dairy cooperative gave financial support to Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., in his 1972 presidential bid.

Sign says it all

The sign in front of the John C. Stewart home near Campbell tells the story for peach growers in that area for this year. Extremely cold temperatures, coupled with frost and freezing rain, is believed to have killed almost all of the peach blossoms in the Campbell area. Peach trees had bloomed about one month early this year due to warm weather.

Growers fear peaches lost

The fight Thursday night with helicopters and smudge pots to save the 1974 peach crop may have been in vain due to Saturday night's snow and frigid temperatures which fell into the low to middle teens. However, peach growers in the area will not be able to determine the full extent of the damage for a few days.

Several peach growers contacted this morning were hesitant about making a statement until trees and blossoms thaw out, so they can better survey the entire orchards.

Carlton Stewart of Campbell, one of the largest commercial peach growers in Southeast Missouri, said Sunday he thought, at that time, that the crop would be a total loss. Although he could not be reached for comment this morning, Mr. John C. Stewart of Campbell said that "it looks like just about a clean sweep...a total loss at Stewart Fruit Center."

Stewart Fruit Co., Inc. has 400 acres of peach trees, 250 of which are at the fruit-bearing age.

David Diebold of Kelso, one of the managers of Diebold's Orchard Inc., said Saturday's low temperatures did a considerable amount of damage but the firm is still optimistic that it will have some peaches. He added that it is "kind of early to tell for sure."

Diebold explained that some varieties may have survived while some may have been wiped out. "Anything that was open was killed," he added, although not all varieties of trees were in bloom. Diebold's has 30 acres in production and about 30 different varieties of peaches.

Harrington draws 40-year sentence

BENTON--- James "Peterboy" Harrington, 24, of Sikeston was sentenced by Judge Marshall Craig in Circuit Court today to 40 years in custody of the State Department of Corrections on a second- degree murder conviction in connection with the 1971 slaying of Kenneth Ellison of Sikeston.

Judge Craig also overruled a motion for a new trial which had been filed in Harrington's behalf. Appeal bond was set at $50,000.

Harrington was found guilty on Jan. 31, but the jury was unable to agree on a sentence.

Ellison, 22 years old at the time of his death, was shot once in the chest with a .22- caliber pistol while participating in a dice game early on Sept. 19, 1971 in the Sunset Addition of Sikeston.

Police issued a warrant for Harrington's arrest after the shooting, but he was not apprehended until Sept. 20, 1973, when he was arrested in Chicago by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents.

Harrington fought extradition back to Missouri but lost, and was returned to Scott County by Sheriff John Dennis.

Error in court record

A warrant was not issued for the arrest of Mary L. Alsup, Route Two, for failing to appear in City Court Thursday on a speeding charge, as reported in Friday's edition of The Daily Standard.

Police said today that an error was made in the court records and that Mrs. Alsup was not scheduled to appear in court that day.

Murder charge filed against Jim Harris

First-degree murder charges have been filed against Jim Harris, 47, of 201 Luther St., for the Sunday night shooting death of Enoch Simmons, 29, 1917 W. North St.

The charges were filed today by Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Jim Moore.

Harris was dead on arrival at 11:35 p.m. at Missouri Delta Community Hospital, but he was officially pronounced deat at 12:05 a.m. today by Coroner Gene Nunnelee.

Detective Sgt. Jack Patterson said Simmons was shot three times while standing inside Harris' Cafe, 201 Luther St. The shooting reportedly followed an argument.

Harris reportedly had thrown Simmons out of the cafe earlier and Simmons was shot when he returned. Witnesses said Simmons had been armed earlier, but was not armed when he returned. Reportedly he did have his hand in his pocket, Patterson said.

Simmons was shot three times with a .38- caliber revolver from a distance of about 10 feet, Patterson said. One bullet entered the right side and exited the left side, a second bullet entered the chest and exited through the back. The third struck and lodged in the lower left arm.

Patterson said when police arrived at the scene, Harris was waiting, pulled the .38- caliber revolver out of his pocket and gave it to police. Police said he identified himself and said he was ready to go.

Officers involved in the investigation were Patterson, Detective Dan Hinton, Capt. Lawrence Woodward, Cpl. Charles Sherrard, Officer John Martin and Scott County Sheriff's Deputy Bud Jones.

Simmons body was removed to Dodson Funeral Home following an examination at the hospital. Nunnelee said no autopsy was scheduled.

Harris was being held in city jail this morning without bond.

The slaying was the third in Sikeston this year. The first occurred Jan. 27, when Vivian Holland, 1409 Henry St., allededly killed her husband with a shotgun while he sat in the kitchen of the family home.

The second slaying occurred Feb. 16 when Jessie James Perkins, 117 Petty St., was shot to death on Thompson St. Robert Lee Williams, 19, of 111 Thompson St. has been charged with the crime.

ASK RANDOLPH HEARST

Suppose for a moment that you were suffering the agony of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Hearst. Now suppose that a handful of well-intentioned but misdirected members of Congress were attempting to destroy the only reliable source of public information on terrorist groups such as the one that holds your daughter captive.

In this setting, the plight of the House Committee on Internal Security would come quickly into focus. the HCIS, which investigates groups or organizations which seek to overthrow our government by force or violence, is under fire by some congressmen who, in effect, want to pull its teeth.

They are led by liberal Rep. Richard Bolling (D-Mo.), chairman of the Select Committee on Committees, who proposes to transfer the HCIS to the overworked House Judiciary Committee where it would likely sink from sight in no time.

The Committee, and its forefunner, the House Committee on Un-American Activities, have long been targets of an assortment of individuals ranging from the dangerously ill-informed to just the dangerous. Now, however, in the public hysteria of Watergate, the threat of this coalition is greater than ever.

During the past several years, the HCIS has investigated an assortment of revolutionary groups in the United States ranging from the Black Panther Party to the Students for a Democratic Society. It has held hearings aimed at safeguarding industrial facilities vital to the U. S. defense program against acts of espionage, sabotage and subversion. And it has issued various reports and studies including one on "kidnappings as a political weapon by Marxists guerrillas and extremists.

Citizens who believe such work is important and should continue can help see that it does by writing their congressmen and by writing Rep. Bolling in care of the Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20515.

ENDING THE GAS SHORTAGE

As our gasoline shortage becomes acute, far too many people speak of rationing as a cure-all, or a better government allocation system, or putting new restrictions on oil companies. But none of these actions, however ideologically or emotionally satisfying to some, will provide us with one drop of gasoline.

We need gas, not bureaucrats and punishments. And the only way to get more gas is to make it profitable to produce and market more under today's conditions. This means letting the price of gas rise to its free market level.

This has been done in nearly every Western European country, with the result that there is no gas shortage there. Drivers have cut back their gas usage voluntarily to what they really need and are able to pay for. There are no long lines. Gas in Europe always has been much more costly than in the U.S.

Some denounce "windfall profits" for oil companies. In fact, government has long held the price of gas below its natural market level, so that oil companies have made few profits for some time.

In a recent speech about the gas shortage to the National Association of Manufacturers, Dr. Henry Manne, professor of law and political science at the University of Rochester, spoke words rarely heard nowadays from professors: "Profits serve as a correct and efficient signal for the production of more goods."

There are many ways to help the poor who might truly suffer from higher gas prices. We can be sure they will suffer, along with everyone else, if gas increasingly becomes unavailable at any price.

EAGLETON WANTS MORE TO GET BENEFITS

Sen. Tom Eagleton has introduced legislation to provide flood disaster loans at a low interest rate of 1% to flood disaster victims whose communities had not qualified for the insurance at the time of the disaster.

Such loans are available in Paris and other cities and areas that have qualified by zoning that restricts construction to other than flood- prone areas.

His bill, if passed, would make such loans available to much of the river areas of the county.

Eagleton's action is in line with his customary willingness to work at measures that will help and be fair to the people of his state and others.

A NEW APPROACH

Up to this time, past experience has indicated that it generally took some $2 million, an effort of 2 to 4 years and an enrollment of at least 20,000 for a new prepaid group practice system, or Health Maintenance Organization as they are called, capable of providing complete medical services for its members to break even. By contrast, the Wisconsin plan was started up at an initial cost of only $50,000 and is doing well with an enrollment of 17,000 members. From the patient's standpoint, the most important aspect of the Health Maintenance Plan in Wisconsin is that it delivers complete medical services within the present health care delivery system without regimenting either doctors or patients. With 90 per cent of the doctors in the area participating, the individual can choose virtually any doctor he wishes and each person can decide whether or not he wants to take part in the plan. Extensive out- patient benefits make it unnecessary to use expensive hospital facilities unless they are actually needed. As the Madison, Wisconsin State Journal put it, "... HMP virtually cocoons a patient in protective health benefits, all of which are paid for in full."

It should be emphasized that no single method of delivering health services is going to bring medical Utopia to all people under all circumstances. The Wisconsin Health Maintenance Plan simply demonstrates the value of preserving the freedom to innovate, the incentives for excellence and the individuality of our medical system. We have already created the financing mechanism, the administrative expertise and the medical know-how required to meet the health needs of our people in a manner that far surpasses the wildest dreams of any system of state medicine ever devised.

HISTORY SWALLOWS ITS OWN TAIL

Along with all its other effects, Watergate is spurring scholars to unearth all kinds of historical oddments bearing on some of the constitutional issues involved.

The question of executive privilege, for example, apparently arose as far back as the second term of President George Washington.

In 1795, Washington's secretary of state, Edmund Randolph, resigned in the face of allegations that he had passed state secrets to the French government. To clear his name, Randolph asked Washington's permission to make public certain letters and conversations between himself and the President.

According to historian Thomas Flexner, recipient this year of a Pulitizer Prize for his biography of Washington, the first president "was confronted with a clear case of whether to cling to executive privilege, and he chose not to."

Although he knew that publication of his communications with Randolph could damage the country's international relations, says Flexner, Washington decided that it was more important to retain public confidence that he, as president, had nothing to hide.

Again on the subject of executive privilege, it seems that in 1951 a freshman senator from California introduced a bill that would have given the chief federal judge in each judicial district the power to name, at the request of a federal grand jury, an independent prosecutor to look into a variety of scandals then rocking the Truman administration.

The rationale behind the bill was the belief that the executive branch could not properly investigate and prosecute itself for wrongdoing.

Its sponsor was named Richard M. Nixon.

THE THREE BONES

An Irish father was seeing his son off on the steamship to a new land where the lad was going with the intention of seeking his fortune in a new way of life.

"Now, Michael, my boy," said the elderly man, as they parted, "remember the three bones, and ye'll always get along all right."

A stranger standing nearby overheard the remark, and when the ship had gone, he inquired of the old gentleman what three bones he had referred to in his parting advice to his son.

"Sure, now," responded the old Irishman, "and wouldn't it be the wishbone and the jawbone and the backbone? It's the wishbone that keeps you going after things, and it's the jawbone that helps you find out how to go after them if you are not too proud to ask a question when there's something you don't know, and it's the backbone that keeps you at it till you get there!"

We have the habit of rushing frantically here and there, without much aim or direction. We seem to think that if we just keep going at a terrific pace we are getting something done. Actually, we should accomplish much more if we could be clam, quiet, and poised.

Dr. Rufus M. Jones points out the difference between a merry-go-round and a canal lock. On a merry- go-round you do a lot of traveling, but you get off at the same place you got on. In a canal lock you don't travel anywhere, but you are lifted to a higher level. What are we — a merry-go-round or a canal lock?

THE GREATER YIELD

Two young hikers were going through a part of the country where water seemed scarce. Upon inquiry, a man led them down a little path where, under overhanging leaves, a clear spring bubbled up.

As the boys refreshed themselves, the man told them how he had discovered the spring many years ago. He had scraped away moist leaves to find a little pool of very cold water. He feared to reveal the discovery.

"But my fears were all for nothing," laughed the man. "The more the neighbors used the spring, the more water there was for me. If I were young and starting out like you, I'd never be afraid to share all the good things life gave to me. They yield more for being shared with others"

ONE MORE ROUND

In the estimation of many, Jim Corbett was the greatest boxer that ever lived. He seldom lost a bout. His opponents were astonished at his capacity to weather their most punishing blows and to keep going. Often his demonstration of endurance discouraged them to the extent that they voluntarily gave up the fight.

Jim Corbett ascribed his capacity to his philosophy of success. He said:

"Fight one more round!

"When your feet are so tired that you have to shuffle back to the center of the ring — fight one more round.

"When your arms ache so that you can hardly lift them up on guard — fight one more round.

"When you feel bruised all over and you wish your opponent would crack you on the jaw and put you to sleep — fight one more round.

"I always remember that the man who fights one more round is never whipped."

Men and women who have succeeded in life have usually followed the same formula, and fought "one more round"

Audubon, the greatest of all bird painters, spent fifteen years in making sketches of birds, and left them in a trunk. When he went to look for them, he discovered that rats had nibbled his drawings to shreds.

Isaac Newton's dog tore a manuscript to pieces that had represented the work of a quarter of his lifetim

A careless maid threw a huge manuscript by Thomas Carlyle into the fire.

But these men did not use their discouragement as a convenient excuse for giving up the fight. All of them went back to work and made another try for success.

Men who get ahead in industry, or in every other phase of life, will always be the men who, like Jim Corbett, are determined to "fight one more round."

POOR MAN'S BEST FRIEND

Even though our nation has unsurpassed opportunities and facilities for education, we remain poor in teaching a fundamental American concept: our business system. Through the years it has reduced poverty and raised our standard of living to the highest of any large nation in the world.

Even among the higher echelons of learning, the true purposes and objectives of business profit have been grossly misinterpreted.

The truth is that profit does not cause high prices. The profit incentive saves consumers money because it stimulates competition which results in the lowest possible prices for the highest possible quality products.

Legitimate profit is the greatest engine of human betterment ever devised by man. It is the poor man's best friend.

The only way we can live better is by producing more for each other — not by trying to get what we want by forced extraction from each other with no equal value supplied in return.

Blacks' Firing Line:

All Gov't Agencies Launch Drive to Force Heaviest Minority Workers Hiring in History

WASHINGTON-- With all its heaviest legal guns now in line, the government is launching its widest offensive against management and labor to force a swift hiring and upgrading of millions of black, Chicano, Puerto Rican, American Indian, Oriental and women workers. This front will rumble-- and grumble-- for years.

Most of the action will thunder from the newly powerful militant Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC). For it now has taken from the Justice Department the power to go into court to punish what it believes to be discriminating corporations, inflict punitive damages and win "back pay" awards totaling millions of dollars, force the hiring of blacks and other minority workers on a one to one or two ratio with whites, and to deprive "guilty" companies from contracting with the federal government.

The new inherent power, newly refashioned, in the hands of government compliance agencies is enormous. There is, for example, the Labor Department's Office of Federal Contract Compliance headed by Phil Davis. Quietly on Feb. 14 it dispatched Order 14 to 19 compliance divisions of such agencies as the General Services Administration and Departments such as Defense.

The order said, in effect, start auditing. Do a sample run-through of the 350,000 firms doing business with the U. S. Here's how to do it, what to look for, what steps to take to conduct the compliance review in search of alleged discrimination against black and other minority workers, the ladies included.

The "implementation date" is April 15. After that-- the action. Order 14 was cosigned by Labor Secretary Pete Brennan, Assistant Secretary Bernard DeLury and Davis.

It will be tough. How tough can be learned from equally militant action taken by the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division which went after the big corporations, especially the utilities with its "pattern and practice" charges of discrimination against minority workers.

Most famous case is the Justice Department's suit against the Detroit Edison Co. In October 1973 a federal judge hit the utility with almost everything he could. He fined it $4 million for punitive damages. And back pay not only for most of the 853 (out of 11,500) black employes, but for those who applied and weren't hired since 1965 and those who didn't apply because they believed they wouldn't be hired.

Further he ruled, for example that these black persons must be hired for every two whites in "trades" jobs; and accelerated hiring in all jobs and maintenance of this formula until 30 per cent of the work force is black.

Also the promotion of a black person to supervisor for every white so promoted. The utility has retained former Secretary of State (former Attorney General) William Rogers for its appeal before the Sixth Circuit in Cincinnati. He'll take it to the Supreme Court if necessary.

A tougher minority hiring policy was imposed by the EEOC on the El Paso Natural Gas Co. last January. The utility agreed that at least 56.8 per cent of all "new hires" in the home office would be Spanish- surnamed Americans, American Indians, blacks and females. In the field these minorities would get 70 per cent of all new hiring. There also was a retroactive salary grant to some employes totaling more than $250,000.

In the Georgia Power Co. case, the Justice Department won a final court order last January for a back pay of no less than $2.1 million. This money, says the Justice Department, goes to "black victims of job discrimination." This is the largest actual award under final decree. It took five years. Now the company must increase its black employment to 17 per cent of the work force in five years.

The Virginia Electric and Power Co. and eight electrical workers' local unions were charged with discrimination against blacks. The company was forced to pay $250,000 back pay-- in 1971. Point is, the Detroit and Georgia cases show a meteoric rise in money penalties.

Typical of the enforced hiring clauses is the Piedmont Natural Gas Co., Inc., of North Carolina. It is required to hire blacks in five job categories until the minority workers fill 20 per cent of the jobs. One black must be hired for each white under this pact in some categories.

Also, the company was ordered to develop a pool of black job applicants.

Or, there is the Louisville Gas and Electric Co. which was ordered to recruit and hire blacks in certain job classifications on a one- for- one basis with whites until the black employe ratio reflects the county's black population-- 14 per cent.

There you have the instances of "pattern and practice" actions brought by the Justice Department. Now John Powell's EEOC swings into action in the private sector, the Justice Department in the public arena (cities-states) if asked by EEOC, and the Labor Department will hit the purveyors to the government itself.

If the drive succeeds it will develop into one of the most massive social upheavals in

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

Nixon Tailors Programs To Suite Die- Hard Supporters

WASHINGTON-- President Nixon's total legislative- public relations strategy reportedly is now geared to defending himself from impeachment and conviction.

Sources privy to the inner councils say the White House has compiled a list of 34 to 39 hard- core conservative senators whose votes the President is counting upon to save himself from removal. All he needs are 34 votes to prevent the Senate from throwing him out of office.

The President is partly tailoring his legislative program, say our sources, to appeal to the die- hard senators. Since they are all strong conservatives, he will take a stand against certain consumer, environmental, and social programs they despise.

Already he has backed away from the Consumer Protection Agency which his consumer adviser, Virginia Knauer, has been pushing. He has also let oil- and- gas senators know that he is fighting to exempt refineries from the environmental laws and to lift the regulation of natural gas.

At the same time, the President has carefully selected friendly, conservative audiences for his public appearances. As a veteran politician, he knows the trigger lines that will evoke applause. He wants conservative senators to hear the applause their supporters are giving the President.

He is also using psychological- political warfare, say our sources, in his fight against impeachment. He knows most politicians are cautious, and some are downright timid. They would rather avoid a confrontation; they almost always prefer to work out an amicable compromise in the backrooms.

This explains the growing clamor from the leaders on Capitol Hill for him to resign. They would like him to go away quietly and, thereby, avoid a nasty impeachment fight. Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., probably the most powerful member of Congress, has even offered to introduce legislation granting Nixon immunity from prosecution if he will resign.

But the President is throwing down the gauntlet and threatening a bruising battle. Our sources say he is counting on the Capitol Hill crowd, out of normal political caution, to back off.

But the members of Congress have an even greater political urge to be reelected. So, in the end, they probably will do what they think the voters wish.

FOOTNOTE: A White House spokesman denied that President Nixon is tailoring his legislation to impeachment, calling the charges ridiculous.

It's not too difficult to discover where the housewives' extra dollars are going.

Beef on the hoof, for example, has dropped nearly $8 per hundred weight and pork has gone down $9 since January.

Yet Missouri Beef, one of the nation's largest meat packers, has seen profits zoom a fantastic 255 per cent in the last quarter. Iowa Beef, another giant, rang up a 39 per cent increase in profits, and General Host, the owner of Swift Meats, recorded a 43 per cent rise.

Nor are the supermarkets suffering. A&P, the nation's largest food chain, reported a 50- cent- per- share increase in earnings this quarter. Marcor, the owner of Jewel, watched its profits soar 61 per cent. Winn- Dixie, Giant, Lucky and Pueblo Stores are also enjoying healthy profits.

The losers are not only the consumers but the farmers. Agriculture Department sources tell us that feed grains are so high that some cattlemen are losing $150 to $200 a head.

The grain giants, of course, are doing quite well, thank you. The two largest, Cargill and Continental, don't have to report their profits because they are still privately held. But their smaller counterparts are eating high on the hog.

Cook Industries recently reported earnings of $6.86 per share, up from a mere 82 cents a year ago. The profit margin of Archer, Daniels and Midland nearly doubled. And Pillsbury, the flour titan, recorded a profit increase of 48 per cent.

In short, the processors and retailers are paying less but charging more for food, and then pocketing the difference. The prices that the shoppers pay remain high, therefore, while the prices the farmers receive are low.

The reasons aren't too difficult to figure out. Often two or three major chain stores dominate over 50 per cent of food sales in a given area. There have been charges of an unspoken "gentlemen's agreement" in some situations to keep prices and profits high.

The Federal Trade Commission is investigating some of the most blatant offenders. But there is no coordinated government policy to prevent food profiteering. And unless bread lines become as long as gas lines, there

Some provisions of campaign reform bill draw reservations

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State government leaders, while generally happy with a campaign reform bill given first-round approval in the Missouri House, express some reservation about a few provisions of the measure.

The product of compromise between Republicans, who primarily favored stringent limitations on spending and contributions, and the Democratic House leadership who preferred a more liberal approach with complete disclosure bearing the brunt of reform, the measure is expected to receive final approval and go to the Senate this week.

Fifteen amendments were tacked onto the bill, sponsored by Rep. Kenneth Rothman, D-Clayton, the House Democratic floor leader. Twenty-six attempts were made to amend it.

A number of the successful amendments provide significant change from Rothman's original proposal.

Included is an amendment which establishes a bi-partisan commission to enforce the spending and reporting limitations. Rothman's bill had provided that authority to the secretary of state, an approach favored by most Democrats.

Under the current bill, candidates and committees would be required to submit reports to the secretary of state, but the commission would maintain enforcement authority. The commission would be appointed by the governor with Senate consent from nominees submitted by the Supreme Court.

Reports would be required to be filed 30 and seven days before and 30 days after an election.

Proponents of that provision said it was necessary to let the people know how candidates had spent their money and who had contributed.

Eliminated from the bill was a check-off system under which Missouri Taxpayers could designate $1 on income tax forms. That provision was favored by state Treasurer James Spainhower and many other Democrats.

All candidates spending more than $500 in a campaign would be covered by the reporting provisions of the bill.

Contributions of $25 or less would have to be reported, listing the donor's name and address. Contributions of under $25 would have to be reported in total, but would not have to be listed with the donor.

Spending limitation in the bill were criticized by Gov. Bond as being unrealistic. He thinks a limitation of $287,000 for a statewide race should be raised. The $287,000 figure is Bond's estimate of the limit.

The bill limits statewide candidates to expenditures of $6.25 per 100 residents of the state or $12.50 per 100 voters in the last presidential election. Other candidates could spend $12.50 for each 100 residents or $25 for each 100 voters.

House Speaker Rabbitt disagrees with the governor.

"What we wanted to accomplish," he said, "was a limitation on expenses that would allow someone to run (for statewide office; without being a millionaire."

He cited a number of wealthy candidates including Bond and Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth who have been successful in politics.

Rabbitt disagreed with an assertion by Charles Valier, the governor's assistant, that the restriction on expenses would favor incumbants.

Valier said as a result of the office he holds, an incumbent candidate for statewide office, especially governor, would hold a marked advantage over challangers because of extensive media exposure.

"It works both ways," Rabbitt contended. He said the occupant of the governor's office is sure to receive criticism in the media and that criticism would have an effect on voters.

He said he hoped the limitation would lead to television providing "more public affairs programs and less purchased Madison Avenue type advertising."

Rabbitt supported the concept of allowing banks, corporations and labor unions contribute to campaigns.

"We feel," he said, "that as long as people know where they money is coming from, they can make a decision accordingly."

Rabbitt said he had supported campaign reform for a number of years and was generally pleased with the form of the bill.

However, he cited some provisions as possibly being "too restrictive."

Among them is a limitation of $25 for anonymous contributions. He said such a restriction might limit the small contributor and result in greater reliance upon large donations.

Critics of that exemption have said candidates could receive thousands of contributions of $24 each and not be required to report names and addresses of contributors.

Republican Floor Leader Robert Snyder of Kirkwood proposed an amendment to the bill which would have limited nondisclosure of names and addresses of contributors of $5 or less. He withdrew the amendment when it appeared that many Democrats would not support it, and substituted the $25 figure. Rothman's bill originally called for a $100 upper limit.

Snyder, who led a floor attempt by Republicans to amend the Rothman measure, said he had reservations about allowing corporations, banks and labor unions contribute to campaigns.

He said it was opening up an avenue for big money because corporations are not allowed now under state law to contribute.

Snyder said the argument that such contributions would be made, whether prohibited or not, was a specious one. Prohibiting the contributios, he said, would make the procedure "cumbersome and burdensome," and would have the effect of limiting them even if they were not completely eliminated.

The allowance of such contributions is widely different from current law, which allows contributions from voluntary committees using only their own money.

Under another provision of the bill, reporting by political committees has been significantly strengthened. A candidate must now designate an official committee and all expenses and contributors to subsidiary committees must be funnelled through the main one.

Centralized filing of expense reports by committees is another marked departure from current law. Committees may now file reports in the county where they are formed and in some instances out-of-state committees have filed reports in the state where they were functioning.

Penalty provisions of the bill have drawn some criticism as not being strong enough. Violations could result in a fine of up to $1,000 or a one-year jail sentence or both.

Ann Landers

Teen's mother not a 'Mrs. Robinson'

Dear Ann: I'm 37, the mother of a beautiful teenage daughter who comes by her looks naturally. (I was a finalist in a national beauty contest in the late '50s). We look more like sisters than mother and daughter. Like many other women, I do my housework in the nude. When the weather is pleasant I slip out for a skinny -dip in our secluded, private pool. My husband takes frequent business brips but when he's home he often joins me.

Our daughter has a handsome 17 -year -old boyfriend. In spite of Rick's tender age, I find myself attracted to him. He has always treated me with respect and I've kept my infatuation well concealed.

Last week I was enjoying a nudie swim when Rick suddenly appeared at the side of the pool. I was speechless with embarrassment To make me feel "at ease," he calmly disrobed and joined me. Rick is built like a Greek god and we cavorted playfully in reckless abandon. It ended when he kissed me in a way that made my head twirl

Now Rick wants me to be his "Mrs. Robinson," arguing that many middle -aged women have young lovers. I'm tempted, but scared to death. If my daughter found out she'd be furious.

I have a 33 -year -old divorced neighbor who would be crazy about Rick. I've thought of introducing them to get him off my trail. In the meantime, I'm having nightmares. I haven't been skinny -dipping since. This letter is no phony from Yale. It's a REAL problem, and I need help in --Marin County

Dear Marin: Inform Rick that he is not welcome to drop around your pool uninvited. When he comes to see your daughter, get lose, Ma. And don't introduce him to anybody. I'll bet this kid already knows several middle -aged women. Let's hope Rick doesn't have a loose lip or you could be in for the hassle of your life.

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of the recent research project which revealed that men who smoke pipes are viewed by women as "sexier, superior intellects, more mature, sincere, attractive, stable and masculine"? This survey was conducted by a local psychology institue. Can a pipe give a man all those enviable qualities? --Bay Area Ann Fan

Dear Bay: A pipe can't give a man ANY of those enviable qualitites. The survey merely said women VIEW men who smoke pipes as "sexier, superior intellects, etc."

Did you know the research project was commissioned by a pipe manufacturer in Burlingame, California?

Dear Ann Landers: I've been reading your column for 20 years and you are a quack. My diagnosis is based on a detailed computerized analysis. You have produced only 79 original answers since 1953. Since you write seven days a week, this means you give only one honest -to -goodness reply every 93 days.

The other 92 days you sneak by with "seek professional help" or "see your clergyman" or "you Yale guys make me sick. Knock it off." You are a phony. -- Close Observer

Dear C.O.: I've been writing this column for 18 years, not 20. Among your other "gifts" are you also a clairvoyant? You'd have to be to see me coming two years before I appeared.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism- Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35c in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self -addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Vitamin "E" + "C" Combo. with R.A.F. Diet Offers Fast Weight Loss

LOS ANGELES (Special) — The new combination of Vitamin "E" + "C" in tablet form used with the new R.A.F. Diet Control has been found to give excellent results in weight loss when followed according to its simple instructions. And reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country with reports of quick weight loss while still eating most of the foods you are used to.

Those who follow the simple plan report an average loss of at least a pound a day and even more without exercise or starvation. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon and eggs and still lose weight.

The Vitamin "E" + "C" tabs used with the diet plan supply you with the M.D.R. which otherwise may be lost when enrolled in the weight control plan.

The use of the new Vitamain "E" Plus "C" Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body keep fit and not suffer from hunger pangs. This is a solid common sense diet plan—100% safe — no unpleasant side effects.

"E" + "C" DIET AVAILABLE

To get a copy of this highly successful diet and "E" Plus "C" Tablets, send $5.00 for 10 day supply (or $7.00 for 20 day supply or $10.00 for 30 day supply) to: Yamada Agency, 309 N. Kings Rd., Los Angeles, CA 90048 money-back guarantee if not satisfied). In Calif. add 5% tax

FFA contest judging to be held at Dexter

CAPE GIRARDEAU--The first phase of the annual Future Farmers of America agriculture judging contest coordinated by the Southeast Missouri State University department of agriculture will be conducted Wednesday at Dexter High School.

Offier interviews and the farm mechanics phase of the spring competition will be held on that day. Both are scheded to get under way at 3:30 p.m.

The farm mechanics competition is divided into three areas. The competition is scred on a team basis, but only one member of a three-member team judges a particular area.

In area one there is arc weding, farm power and farm machinery. Area two enbraces oxy- acetylene velding, tool identification and wood working. Area three is made up of blumbing, concrete and electricity.

There is also a written examination which the judges in each area must complete.

The remaining portions of the annual competition will be held on the Southeast Missouri State campus April 5-6.

Contests to be conducted on April 5 will be animal husbandry, soils, poultry, milk quality and dairy foods and farm management. The competitive categories for April 6 are dairy cattle, ornamental horticulture, field crops, meats, public speaking, creed speaking and parliamentary procedure.

Hospital assistance bills become focus of political test

JEFFERSON CITY — Two bills to provide aid to Missouri hospitals have become the focus of a political test of wills that could end with neither of them being written into law this year.

One bill would establish a maternal and child health care program that was proposed by Gov. Christopher S. Bond in his annual budget message. The other, supported by the legislature's Democratic leadership, would provide direct financial aid to hospitals that have incurred expenses in excess of income from patient service fees.

The maternal and child health care program is designed to assist hospitals in identifying and providing better prenatal care for mothers who have a high risk of giving birth to mentallly retarded children. It also would provide better post natal care for the children.

The governor asked that $5 million be appropriated from the state's general revenue sharing funds to finance the program for the first year. "Since the cost of maintaining one individual for life in one of our mental retardation institutions exceeds $500,000, this program would more than pay for itself if we prevent retardation in only 10 people, Bond said in his budget message.

The bill to provide direct aid to hospitals is similar to a proposal that was passed during the last session, but vetoed by the governor on the grounds that it did not specify where the money would be used. He feels that categorical assistance to a specific program, like he has proposed, is a more efficient method of allocating state funds.

The direct aid program, as it is now written, would pay up to 33 per cent of the difference between a hospital's gross revenues and gross expenditures. The assistance would be available to any hospital operated by a city, county or hospital district, or any not- for- profit corporation operating under a contract with some political subdivision. Estimated cost of the program's first year is $17 million.

The measure was introduced in the current session despite predictions that the governor would veto any plan to provide direct aid to hospitals for a second time.

Aware of the veto threat, Rep. John Scott (R-St. Louis), the sponsor of the direct aid bill, was succesful in amending his proposal onto the health care bill. Scott admitted his intention was to strengthen the chances that the governor would sign the direct aid bill by facing him with the choice of approving or vetoing both.

The chances the two measures will reach the governor in their present form appear good.

Early in the session, Sen. William J. Cason, the Senate president pro tem, came out in support of the direct aid bill, but criticized the health care proposal as a "welfare program" that would face heavy going in the Senate.

He has softened his position since then, however. He told a reporter last week he was not opposed to the maternal and child health care program so long as it is not used as a substitute for direct assistance to hospitals troubled by financial deficits.

Both programs have merit, Cason said, but were designed to do different things. The maternal and child health care program would not solve the fiscal problems of urban hospitals, he said.

What's the law?

The case of the cooperative citizen

By JACK STRAUSS LL.B.

Wilbur's automobile was in first class condition. However, it ended up in first- crash condition, after a sheriff flagged him down one night.

In order to catch a wanted desperado, the sheriff decided to set up a roadblock and ordered Wilbur to park his car across the public highway. Instead of the desperado, Mr. Wimple came driving along, unable to stop in time, he slammed head- on into Wilbur's haplessly parked vehicle.

And, if that wasn't enough to make poor Wilburn sit down and cry, Mr. Wimple sued him for his injuries.

"I'm just lucky I'm not playing a harp in some heavely quartet," complained Mr. Wimple in court. "Stupid Wilburn parked his car right across the highway."

"But, that's what the sheriff ordered me to do," was Wilbur's answer. "And , since he was the sheriff, I figured I had no choice. Certainly, a man can't be sued for being a cooperative citizen."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make cooperative Wilbur pay for Mr. Wimple's injuries?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that when a police officer commandeers a private vehicle and directs that it be parked across a highway to form a roadblock,the owner of the vehicle cannot be held liable to persons injured thereby as a matter of public policy. What's more, concluded the judge, as a matter of public policy, the county can be held responsible to Wilbur for the destruction of his motor vehicle.

Aspects of farming explained to Kiwanis

Farmers are in the best position they have been in many years because there is now a market for any crop or product produced on the farm, John Garrett, extension area agronomist, told members of the Optimist Club at 6:45 a.m. today at the El Capri Restaurant.

He added that this would hold true unless spring weather conditions prohibited full production of the crops.

Garrett said that the adverse side of farming this year is a shortage of inputs for agriculture, such as fertilizer and equipment.

In the last year fertilizer prices have jumped from $70 a ton to $200 a ton, when available. Garrett said part of the shortage was caused by the selling of surplus fertilizer to foreign countries who were willing to pay higher prices.

The equipment shortage is due mostly to the steel shortage, Garrett told the group.

During the meeting, it was announced that the second annual Tri- Star basketball program, an Optimist International project, will be held April 20 in Sikeston, the details of which will be announced later.

Smoking in bed causes fire

Firemen were called at 7:40 p.m. Sunday to the A. T. Dickerson home, 219 W. Gladys St., when a mattress caught fire in the bedroom.

Firemen said the blaze was started by someone smoking in bed.

Damage was confined to the mattress and the springs.

Woman won't be charged in fatal shooting

CARUTHERSVILLE—Prosecuting Attorney Art Stephenson Jr. has declined to press charges stemming from a fatal shooting which occurred in Caruthersville late Thursday night.

Stephenson said Paulette Cross, 27, of Caruthersville admitted shooting her ex-boyfriend, Bobby Lynn McCutcheon three times but said she shot in self- defense.

The incident occurred around 11 p.m. at Mrs. Cross's residence at 1609 Carroll when McCutcheon went to her home and began to berate her for apparently signing a complaint charging him with a disturbance after he came to her home drunk in recent weeks. Mrs. Cross said he threatened to beat her up and started to grab her when she ran to get a pistol, ordering him to leave. He cursed her again and grabbed at her when she fired the gun three times, authorities said.

McCutcheon died within minutes after police officers arrived, having been summoned to the scene to quell the disturbance.

Prosecutor Stephenson said McCutcheon was free on bond at the time of his death on a charge of assaulting a police officer, stemming from an incident in the county jail last December, when McCutcheon walked into the jail drunk and began quarreling with Deputy Sheriff Maurice Malin. Authorities said Malin told the man to go home and was walking him to the front door when McCutcheon pushed the deputy through an eight- foot plate glass window. Malin and McCutcheon suffered minor abrasions.

Authorities said McCutcheon had a history of violent temper while intoxicated and had been arrested several times in recent years on several burglary charges and numerous misdemeanor violations.

Thomas named coach of year

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Basketball Coach Bill Thomas of Southwest Missouri is the National Collegeiate Athletic Association College Division coach of the year.

Thomas, who led the Bears into the final round of the small college tournament at Evansville, received the award Sunday night at the NCAA post season banquet here. Southwest lost the NCAA College DIVISION TITLE to Morgan State, 67-52, finishing its season 21-9.

Showdown set

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Norman Sloan of North Carolina State and Al McGuire of Marquette, two basketball coaches who believe strongly in love, were down to the final game of the season tonight as their teams met for the NCAA championship.

"This team is made up of men who truly love one another — that's why it has been a winner," said Sloan, 47-year-old Indiana native who played in the backcourt at N.C. State 25 years ago under legendary Everett Case.

Sloan said the family feeling generated by his players toward each other and their coaches has made them a team.

Sloan conceded it took while before junior college transfers Moe Rivers and Phil Spence, new to the squad this season, fit in comfortably as members of the family.

McGuire said before Marquette began its season, "It's definitely going to depend upon if the players really love each other or just make believe and have their love affairs with the semi agents who will tout them and blow their heads out of proportion."

The N.C. State Wolfpack, No. 1 in the nation and 29-1 on the season with a 27-game winning streak, is averaging 92 points a game.

Marquette, ranked No. 3 on a 26-4 record, traditionally has been a defensive leader under McGuire, who regards his swarming defense as part of his offense.

His warriors are 104-11 for their last four seasons. In those 115 games they have yielded more than 75 points only 11 times, twice in overtime games.

The Wolfpack recovered from an 11-point deficit to end UCLA's bid for an eighth straight NCAA title with an 80-77 double overtime victory over the Bruins as Thompson led the way with 28 points. Incredibly, State wiped out a seven-point UCLA lead in the second extra period.

Marquette, trailing 24-23 at halftime, rallied to clip Big Eight champion Kansas 64-51 as Maurice Lucas scored 18 points.

The N.C. State-Marquette game, set for 9:10 p.m., EDT, will be televised nationally by NBC. It will follow a 6:35 p.m. third place game between Kansas and UCLA.

Kansas Coach Ted Owens says his Jayhawks are eager for the chance to show they are better than they appeared against Marquette.

UCLA Coach John Wooden is frank to admit neither he nor his team likes consolation games. He said his policy is to give most of the playing time to players who have not seen as much service over the year and let his seniors determine whether they want to play.

Wooden said one senior indicated he might not play. Wooden would not identify him, but hinted that it was 6-foot-11 Bill Walton, three-time AllAmerican.

Essex No. 1

VANDUSER--- Essex romped to the championship of the Vanduser Men's independent basketball tournament Friday night, using a full court zone press in the fourth quarter to run up 50 points and the 133-99 victory over Lilbourn.

Lilbourn jumped out to a 24-23 lead in the first quarter before Essex moved ahead 55-45 at the half, but failed to put their smaller opponents away as Lilbourn bounced back to within seven (83-76) at the end of three before inserting its devastating full court press for the victory.

Pat McClarty continued to burn the nets for Lilbourn and had his third straight night of 30 or better, pumping in 38 to take the Most Valuable player honor of the event. He was backed by Mitchell Allen's 25.

Essex will compete in the Southeast Missouri Men's independent basketball championships at Risco next week. Anyone interested in entering a team should contact Ron Jaynes at 471-6980 or 357-4447.

Sportsmanship

Trinity Baptist Church was recipient of the Church League sportsmanship award. Accepting the trophy were team members, Allen Curry, Tony Ford, Dean Russell, Greg Lee and Mike Collier.

Church league banquet

The Sikeston's Church League basketball organization held it's first annual banquet Thursday night at the Sikeston National Guard Armory.

Honored at the banquet were the first and second place teams in the League. An award was also given to the team that displayed the best sportsman during the tournament. This award was decided on by the League Commission, the Team coaches, and the referees.

Coach Chuck Leible's Catholic Church Team placed first in the tournament. The First Methodist Church team placed second, the Methodist Team was coached by Dick McDougal and Rob Mitchell. The sportsmanship award went to the Trinity Baptist Chruch.

The League is made of 13 teams composed of Junior and Senior high students that take a active part in their church.

The Reverend Paul Walker served as the athletic director for the tournament. Reverend Walker is a member of the Sikeston Minsterial Alliance, this alliance sponsored the event.

Although this was the first banquet held for the League, the League has been in existance for nearly 20 years.

Jack Britt was chairman for the banquet and a large crowd attended.

Runner-up

First Methodist Church placed second in the Church league basketball program this winter. Displaying the trophy are Kenny Newton, Craig Vogel and Prince McDougal.

Champions

The Catholic church basketball team claimed first place in the Sikeston church league program this winter. Shown with their top prize are Jerry Dement, Chuck Leible and Will Kaiser.

Cruz's top card

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Jose and Hector Cruz must be wondering what you have to do to stick with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Jose, a 26-year-old outfielder who lost the starting job in center for the Cards this spring, smacked a double and drove in three runs Sunday as St. Louis bounced the Cincinnati Reds, 5-2 for their ninth exhibition win against five losses.

But at least Jose is still on the Redbirds' roster. Younger brother Hector, a 20-year-old rookie, is not. He was one of those sent across town Sunday to the Cards' minor league complex as they trimmed their roster to 31 players.

And all he did to deserve that was smack his third home run of the grapefruit season in the seventh to nail the lid on the St. Louis win.

And while the Cruz brothers battered the Reds at the plate, St. Louis righthander Alan Foster scattered eight hits over six innings to baffle them for the mound.

Foster, 13-9 with St. Louis last year, gave up both Cincinnati runs in his second six-inning stint this spring.

Jose Cruz opened the scoring in the first with a two-run double off Clay Kirby, then slammed in another run with a grounder in the sixth to put the game away.

The Reds had squeezed out a run in the first on a single by Johnny Bench, then tied it in the fifth when Darrel Chaney tripled to leftcenter and scored on Ken Griffey's single.

Hector Cruz wrapped up the scoring with his homer.

Other cut in the first squad reduction by the Cards were pitchers Tony Gonzalez, John Denny and Dan Larsen, catcher Marc Hill, first baseman Ed Kurpiel, and outfielders Larry Herndon and Jerry Humphrey.

The Cards announced they also returned outfielder-first baseman Jay Johnstone to the Oakland Athletics. Johnstone had been purchased conditionally by St. Louis two months ago.

Spinks traded

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Scipio Spinks will return to his home town to pitch for the Chicago Cubs as a result of a weekend deal in which he was exchanged by the St. Louis Cardinals for Jim Hickman, a veteran first baseman-outfielder.

Spinks, born and reared in Chicago, has had two injuries since joining the Cardinals early in the 1972 season when he was acquired from the Houston Astros.

The 26-year-old righthander suffered a knee injury that year and missed the rest of the season after accumulating a 5-5 record. He was sidelined because of calcium deposits in his pitching shoulder last year after acquiring a 1-5 mark.

Hickman will be 37 years old in May. He went to bat only 201 times for the Cubs last season and had three home runs and 20 runs batted in. His totals for a 12-year major league career show a .252 batting average and 986 hits.

He spent five seasons with the New York Mets, played briefly with the Los Angeles Dodgers and has been with the Cubs for the last six years.

Moberly third

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Mercer County of Trenton, N.J., glided through the National Junior College basketball tournament with its crown firmly in place—until the late stages of the championship game against Chipola of Marianna, Fla.

Coming into the tournament with a 29-2 record, the New Jersey team swept aside Niagara County of Sanborn, N.Y., 80-58; Grand View of Des Moines, Iowa, 83-48 and Northeastern Oklahoma A M, 64-51.

In the finals on Saturday night, it looked like more of the same. Chipola-Marianna was trailing 44-34 with 13 minutes, 45 seconds left.

However, the outside shooting of Albert Gardner and Albert Culver came into play against the Mercer County zone defense and, with 5:12 left, it was suddenly tied, 50-all. The Florida team could do no better than tie it—the last time at 56-56— and it was Gardner's misfortune to miss a shot from the corner that well could have sent it into overtime.

The title game ended 60-58. Gardner, the best of the second-place team with 20 points, was named the tournament's most valuable player.

Seal contributions top $775 in Scott County

CAPE GIRARDEAU— Easter Seal campaign contributions in Scott County were $775.25 at the March 22 halfway point, reports Harold Kuehle, president of the Southeast Region of the Easter Seal Society of Missouri. For the entire region, comprising 23 counties, campaign receipts totaled $10,735.21.

The campaign runs through Easter Sunday, April 14.

Funds raised during the annual Easter Seal appeal provide the principal support for the society's multiple rehabilitation assistance services given to disabled children and adults. Included in these services are: braces, prostheses and equipment for home use on either a loan or purchase basis, transportation to treatment centers camping, recreation, a homebound- homecraft program, special education and therapy.

The society's basic program, information-referral- follow- up, is intended to help disabled people and their families make effective use of all community resources. When unable to meet a certain need or when a special service is available from another agency, the society makes referrals to the appropriate agency and follows up its referrals to assure that the client's needs are being fulfilled.

Requests for help for disabled persons in this area should be directed to the Easter Seal Society of Missouri, Southeast Region, 316 S. Plaza Way, Cape Girardeau, 63701. The telephone number is 335-6626.

Lilbourn has election races

LILBOURN-- Four- man races developed for the offices of city marshal and police judge to be filled in the April 2 city election, according to Harold Ponder, city clerk. Filing deadline was Saturday.

Marshal Fred Roe is opposed for re- election by former marshal Johnny Martin, Terry Dunn and Bob Welsch.

Candidates challenging Police Judge L. V. Stevens for a fourth term are James E. Lowe, Ray Cravens and Welton Henry.

Unopposed for re- election are mayor Bill Tope, collector Ruth Newton, west ward alderman Joe Albright and east ward alderman Ed Beavers.

Polling places announced are the city hall for west ward voters and the old school gymnasium in the east ward.

the accident and was taken to Chaffee General Hospital. The driver of the car, Joyce Ann Kinder, 20, of Painton, was not injured.

LaDonna Wagner, 36, of Dexter was injured in an accident at 8:15 p.m. on Route A one mile south of Dexter.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Mary McMunn, 37, of Dexter skidded on an ice- covered road— and was struck by a car driven by Carolyn Young, 26, of Dexter.

Mrs. Wagner, a passenger in the McMunn car, was taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

Five persons were injured at 12:30 a.m. Sunday 10 miles south of Sikeston on Interstate 55 when Theodis Jackson, 23, of Chicago lost control of the car he was driving on icy pavement, and the vehicle struck a bridge and was thrown into the path of a tractor- trailer truck driven by William Commer, 37, of Scott City.

Jackson and four passengers, Dolphis Jackson, 34, Willie Jean Jackson, and Cherylita Jackson of Chicago and Essie B. Jackson of Clarendon, Ark., received minor injuries and were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

ot peaches in two orchards--- one at Jackson and another at Cape Girardeau. The wife of Bill Beggs, who manages the Cape Girardeau orchard, said that although it is hard to tell immediately, some varieties of cling peaches may have survived the adverse weather conditions. "Some that were in full bloom were a 100 per cent total loss," Mrs. Beggs said.

At Miller's Orchard at Campbell, which is managed by Mr. and Mrs. John Flowers, 60 acres of trees are at the fruit- bearing age. Mrs. Flowers said today that they won't be able to assess the damage until this afternoon because of the dip in temperatures again last night. She did explain, as did other peach growers, that anything with open blooms was dead.

George Lovins of Dexter said he was afraid to make a statement yet. He added that it will be a few days before he can really tell what the damage is to the peach crop at C and L Orchards near Dexter.

Peach trees in the area, especially those in the more southern part of Southeast Missouri, were in full bloom, which made this year's crop more susceptible to frost. The early blooming of the trees was spurred on by unseasonably warm temperatures throughout February and early March.

In Sikeston, high and low temperatures for the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. Sunday were 42 and 16 degrees, with one- half inch of snow recorded. High and low temperatures for the period ending at 7 a.m. today were 34 and 16 degrees.

The extended forecast calls for warmer temperatures Wednesday through Friday, with highs from the 50s to 60s and lows in the 30s and 40s. There is a chance of rain about Wednesday or Thursday.

"We didn't get a free gift when we switched to First National Bank, and we really appreciate it."

We switched to First National Bank about 3 years ago on the advice of a friend. We'd just gotten married and had a lot of financial questions.

We'd seen "free" plastic coolers, cameras, silver-plated pie servers, china and other gimmicks in the ads. But we didn't want a "free" gift. We wanted a bank that understood the money problems young couples has.

Larry and I were impressed with the personal efficient service, and having our own officer to answer all our questions.

True, the president didn't come out with a "free" ice bucket or a pie-server. But our officer at First National Bank saved us money on our auto loan, set up a security savings plan for our first child and showed us how to earn an extra $60.00 a year on our savings. That sure beats a free pie-server or even a dozen ice buckets or other gimmicks.
